Napoleon, Ohio, Feb. 15, 1896.

MRS. SUE WELSTED

The last time I was at the fortress of the Saven Towers I was wandering idly through the outer gate, intending, as us-ual, to peer between the atones of the so called Well of Blood, into which an Armenian subbler declares that the heads of a number of janizaries were thrown when Mahmoud the Reformer destroyed the corps. The well is deep and black, and there is water in it, and probably no bones at all by this time. In passing through the gate I stumbled against a stone which lay in the way under the arch. It was a bit of the headstone of a woman's grave, as was clear from the carved sunflower. for men's graves have a turban or fes, according to the epoch. Below the flower a part of the inscription was still legible—the dedication to God, "the everabiding One"—and below that, in Turkish, the words, "I have come to the garden of this words, but have found to the garden of this world, but have found no kindness.' More had followed, but the stone was broken off at that place.

There was an odd pathos and pity about it, as though the unhanny woman, who-

When Balw was sick, we gave her Castoria When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria When she became Miss, she chung to Castoria When she had Children, she gave them Castoria aver the niki ocen; buffed long ago outside the walls, had come back, knocking once more at the gate of the "garden of this world," asking for a little of that kindness of which she had found none in this life. It was all very lonely and desolate, the high sun beating down upon the withersd shrubs and bushes of the garden which had once flowered in the court and blazing more flargely still upon the desertblasing more fleroely still upon the desert-ed hillors, the ruined mosque, and the mouth of the Well of Blood outside the open gate, and there, in the shadow of the arch, the ghost of the Turkish woman asking for kindness and finding none.—

LETTERS COST $1 APIECE.

California Miners Lined Up For the Mail, and Piaces Were Worth $300. A well known patent attorney in this city, who was in California in the early mining days, apropos the publication in The Post of the cost of carrying mails on the Yukon, makes some interesting statements about similar service on the Pacific coast in 1849-50:

"We had to pay $1 for every letter sent or received," he states, "besides the government postage. We were in the mines and had to send a messenger, with an order for the postmaster to deliver to him our mail at Sacramento, distance of from 75 to 100 miles, according to the location of the camps. Parties made a business of carrying the mail and had regular routes around through the mining camps.

"At that time mail went by way of the isthmus, there being but one steamer every three weeks. As a result, at San Francisco and at Sacramento, the two main offices and supply points for the state, there would be a large crowd waiting every time a mail arrived. They finally adopted a rule among themselve requiring all to form in line and take their turn, and hundreds stood or laid in line day and night to keep their places, sometimes several days before they could be served, the line being formed days before the steamer arrived. Resident speculators would take position in the line, and when they had advanced near the door would sell their place to others from the mines, who were waiting, frequently getting from $100 to $300.

"Such a thing can hardly be believed by those who have never had any such experience, but in the fall of 1849 an ox team driver got $10 per day and board, Sundays being counted the same as other days, while carpenters got from an ounce ($16) to an ounce and a half per day, everything else costing in propor-tion, and hence the mail carriers for the mines could better afford to pay for the position in line than to wait on expense and lose the time, they sometimes being kept waiting for a week before they could get all their mail for the several

W. M. WARD.

"One of the curious sights was the sale of the New York papers. As soon as the steamer arrived a man or boy with a lot of papers would rush ashore, mount a box and just as fast as he could hand out the papers and make change dispose of them at $1 each. Of course in time all this changed, but communica-tion with the States was then so slow and the time required so great that to us, isolated as we were from home and friends and the whole outside world, it eemed almost an eternity. "-Exchange.

"Yes," he answered, as he seemed to huddle himself in a heap. "I've done some odd things in my time. I've jumped from a train running at a speed of 48 miles an hour, and I can't say as I want to repeat the experiment."

"What was the occasion?" "Three years ago. I did it for a bet of 30 shillings. The bet was that I daren't walk out on the platform and take the jump without picking out my ground. As it happened the ground was pretty clear, but £1,000,000 wouldn't get me to try it again."

"How did you come out?" "Well, it's hard to describe the sensation. As I sprang from the step I seemed to fly. I sailed along in the air until my wings grew tired, and then I dropped down to see the country. Somelow, and again I made a mess of it. It was my intention to skip all the mud puddles and avoid all the stumps, but you can't always have your own way in this world. By and by I came up with a bang in a ditch corner, and waited for a first class hospital to visit

"Much hurt?"

"Might have been worse. Broke an arm, two ribs and had over 100 cuts and bruises, and it was seven weeks before I could walk a yard."

"But you won the 20 shillings?" "Y-e-s, but there is where I always grow sad. The stakeholder forwarded it to me from his town in the shape of a coffin, and it didn't fit my length by seven inches. I had to sell the confounded thing as a misfit at half price."-Strand Magazine.

I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria inmeress of their children, and use castoria in-stead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by foreing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending m to premature graves.
